

STATEMENT OF EXPERIENCE

I am a Professor of economics with over 20 years of teaching, research (academic and policy), and advocacy experience. My research interest covers macroeconomics, monetary, labour, and development economics, areas where I have published extensively with over 50 publications. I equally have consultancy experience with government and several local and international organisations. My skills and abilities include handling of large data and statistical software such as STATA, EVIEWS, SAS, SPSS etc, as well as conducting and supervising field work. I also have vast experience in organising and facilitating seminars and workshops, for different economic stakeholders at both national and international levels.
